

Nitzotzot Min HaNer

Resources - A Partial Listing

Volume #11, April 2003

In this month's edition of the Nitzotzot we are bringing you a list of useful resources. We have put together a listing of some organizations that can be of direct help in providing kiruv resources such as seminars, materials, etc. as well as lists of publishers, tape libraries, etc.

The list is by no means exhaustive and we certainly did not intend any evaluative innuendoes by the selection of those we included and excluded. In general, we restricted our list to resources located in the USA or serving the USA. In addition, the organizations we did mention were described with an emphasis to their utility value to other organizations rather than a comprehensive description of their activities.

There are many local organizations which have programs and other things of value to contribute. Generally, these were left out. As well, we left out many organizations whose primary expression or value to other organizations is as a web site as we are planning an edition specializing on that.

We were certainly not able to include all resources here, nor even make an appropriate prioritization. We apologize for all the omissions. If you were left out, please understand and, in case we were not aware of you, please do tell us about you what you have to offer. We will attempt to include some of this information in a subsequent edition.

23. PARTNERS IN TORAH

Phone: 1-800-study-4-2

Director: Rabbi Elie Gurwitz

Partners in Torah will come to your community to set up a 'Partners in Torah' chavrusa night, or nights. They will provide advertising materials, help recruit partners and assist with other aspects of running this program. Partners in Torah also runs a 'Telephone Partners' division which provides telephone chavrusas and phone cards. Partners in Torah has an excellent follow-up division, tracking its participants and connecting them up, in turn, with local resources.

24. PEDAGOGIC MATERIALS

A full listing of organizations producing pedagogic materials and their wares for kiruv schools would require an edition on its own. Torah U'Mesorah's Creative Learning Pavilion, and their Web Site, e-chinuch.com is a good address not only for the materials produced by Torah U'Mesorah. (See Torah U'Mesorah's contact details above.) In South Africa, the Jewish Board of Education, has a fabulous range of materials, and the Union of Orthodox Synagogues produces work books for Jewish study programs in non-Jewish schools, as well as colored and colorful parsha sheets for fun discussions for the whole family. Look them up at www.uos.co.za/shabbat. The Education Resource Center (of the Agency of Jewish Education) in England produces great work books. One very good series is called The World Around us, with books called, Animal Concern, Jewish Responsibility, Do not Destroy, Do not Steal and Love of the Land. They can be found at (44-0181) -203 6799/ F - 202-4668, e-mail: aje-erc@brijnet.org, 44a Albert Road, London, NW4 2SJ. See below, also under Torah Lab and under Yisroel Roll for other options. The Ner LeElef library has hundreds of audio cassettes, books and other materials on teaching methodology and syllabi.

Director: Rabbi Yehoshua Fishman

Many aspects of Torah U'Mesorah projects, such as Aish Dos or the Creative Learning Pavilion relate to schools rather than outreach organizations in a classical sense. Even though many of these schools are outreach organizations in their own right, we have chosen, for reasons of brevity, not to relate to those aspects of the organization here. Worthy of mention though is e-chinuch.org, a web site which allows you to search for a lesson plan and back up materials according to topic and age. A similar, although less extensive site in Russian is istok.ru.

Project SEED

Project SEED sends teams of Bnei Torah scholars to communities for summer Yarchei Kallahs.

Community Placement Division

Directors: Rabbi Nate Segal, ext. 18

Rabbi Dovid Merkin – davidmerkin@aol.com

Rabbis Segal and Merkin are the addresses for new projects in out of town and/or undeveloped communities. Working in close cooperation with Rabbi Moshe Efros of Ner LeElef, Rabbis Segal and Merkin are the addresses to discuss and plan new kollelim, communities and other projects. (See also Rabbi Butler above.) Rabbis Segal and Merkin have initiated many such projects themselves, often providing seed money.

Teachers Placement Division

Director: Rabbi Moshe Possick, ext. 29

Amongst his many jobs, Rabbi Moshe Possick places teachers in out of town schools, arranges internships and in general helps with out of town school development. Rabbi Possick interviews in both Israel and the States for this, and runs two job fairs annually, one in New York in March/April and one at the Torah U'Mesorah convention.

31. TRAINING PROGRAMS

The following list of training programs is incomplete. We have not mentioned the specific Chinuch programs such as the Aish Dos and the Merkaz programs, nor the specific Rabbinic Training programs, such as the YU Semicha Program. Other programs, such as Maor may have been left out, as well as those programs which seem to serve a specific constituency or institution, such as the Aish HaTorah Semicha Program and various Chabad programs. For ideas in training laymen to do kiruv contact Rabbi Yitzchak Shwartz at yschwartz@orchos.org.il who has run a successful pilot program in Passaic or be in touch with the JLE (Ohr Somayach) in England, who have been running a successful, two year men's and women's program for volunteers.
